The week closes with a dull, unsettled feeling in the Stock market. There is not the least pressure to sell, in consequence of the easy condition of money matters; and, on the other hand, there is but little temptation to speculate for the rise, on account of the political uncertainties of the times. The result is inactivity, which cannot be removed until a glimmer of daylight is permitted to visit us. The Stock Exchange, like the rest of the business community, waits for the development of the policy of Government; and its members, with divided opinious, are as much adrift upon the sea of doubt as the dealers in merchandise. In this way not only is speculation checked, but the investment demand is narrowed down to securities which are the least liable to disturbance by political events. The comparatively low prices of Federal securities attracts purchasers, but in ordinary times a loan of eight millions would have been absorbed at and above par for investment in less than a week. Stocks of the Southern States, such as Missouris, Virginias and Tennessees, have a fair market, but fail to command the confidence to which they would be entitled in the absence of political agitation. The favorite securities of the time are undoubtedly Railway Bonds, and the market continues steady for the best descriptions, while for low priced, the demand has considerably increased. Hannibal and St. Joseph Railroad Bonds, which ten days since were offered down to 43, are now scarce at 47, and there has been a marked improvement in the mortgage issues of the Erie, Michigan Southern, Illinois Central, and Chicago and North-Western. There was no material change in market values at the first Board, and the transactions were quite moderate. Galena and Toledo were the most active of the Railway stocks, and the former was the subject of a tolerably vigorous Bear attack, but held up under it with a fair degree of steadiness. At the Second Board the most important feature was the large business in State stocks, which came out freely and were heavy at the close. The aggregate amount of sales of Missouris and Tennessees was $108,000, a large business for an afternoon session. A large portion of the sales were on sellers' options, but the impression is that the bonds are ready for delivery. It is not improbable that the Federal The flowing section of the Act of April 14, 1856, is published for the information of taxpayers.

The business of the Sub-Treasury was: Receipts, $273,361 62-for Customs, $124,858 55; Payments, $319,200 10; Balance, $6,092,841 89.

The business of the Clearing-House to-day was $18,-107 139 15. We have no essential change to report in money matters. There is no disposition to make further concession in rates, and the impression is that with the temporary employment of a large amount of the floating capital of the street in the new loan, the market will be somewhat firmer. The negotiation of paper in the open market is on a limited scale, on account of the large absorption by the banks to replace the loans paid off on Government stock, and the scarcity of choice names. On call, we hear of loans as low as 4 #4; P cent, but these are exceptions, and the minimum rate can be fairly quoted at 5 per cent. The next bank returns promise to show a reserve considerably above forty millions in specie, an amount of the precions metals never before gathered at any central point in this country. In the Spring of 1858, following the crisis of '57, with the contraction of credits and the stagnation of business, the banks accumulated at the highest point between $35,000,000 and $36,000,000, and this appeared to be an extraordinary phase in the polit-THE POLAR REFRIGERATOR, with FILTER and WATER COOLER combined, is the best and carcely wonder at the change. There is much, however, in this specie movement to interest the business man, and although it may be consoling to think that we are beyond peril in banking on a specie basis, it is not as satisfactory when we coneider that inactivity of trade and distrust of credits produce the plethora of money and the accumulation of coin. In 1857 and 1858 the glut was established by natural causes—by excessive enterprise and expansion of credits, which finally brought about a collapseviolent according to the ratio of surplus steam; but in 1861, following the laws of trade, there should have been an active employment of capital, vigor in enterprise, and prosperity in trade. The promises of such a result were never more brilliant than in the Autumn of 1860. We have instead a mass of idle capital, a business community in suspense, and a world of people waiting to know how to act. The ordinary laws of political economy are overthrown; there is nothing in recent developments to emble us to form an opinion, and thus we drift on the open sea without chart or

MUTINY ON THE SHIP STAR OF THE WEST.

Wm. Welsh, and eleven other scamen of the ship Star of the West, were examined on a charge of mutiny on said vessel during her last trip from Liverpool to this port. It appeared that the ship sencountered very bad swather, by reason of which the crew were required to do extra work. One of them (McDonough) refused, and on being threatened with being put in irons, be said he would try any one up who attempted it. The other defendants were mutincus, and the captern had them all put in irons. The Commissioner committed all the prisoners for trial.

THE LIEN LAW—ENFORCEMENT AGAINST PUBLIC SCHOOL-HOUSES.

Edward McMahon agt. Comelins Collins, The Board of School Officers of the Tenth Ward, The Board of Education and The Mayor, &c.

The plaintiff sought to enforce a lien which he claimed to have for work and materials furnished toward the erection of a public school-house in the l'enth Ward. The work consisted of psinting, which was done for the defendant Collins, who had the contract for building the school-house. The contract had been approved by the Board of Education. After the work was done, the plaintiff field notice of his lien.

The case was referred, and the reforce disminsed the complaint on the ground that the Mayor, &c., of the city were the owners of the building, and as the contract was made with the School Boards, and not with the owners, the building could not be hold liable for the claim.

Boards, and not with the owners, the building could not be held lishie for the claim.

The plantiff appealed to the General Term of the Court, where it was now held that as the Mayor hadeonferred upon the School Boards certain powers incident and belonging to ownership, they became for all the purposes of the lien conjointly with the Mayor &c., the responsible owners of the building.

The Court held, in accordance with the opinion of the Court of Appeals in the case of Loosey against Hogan, that this was a proper case for the operation of the lien law. The equitable design of the statute was a applicable in this case as in any other; and as respects the enforcement of the lien against the building, the effect of it, where all who are interested are made, put lies to the proceeding, is not different from other cases. The judgment entered upon the report of the referce is reversed.

Cutter, Administrator, ic., agt. Wright.—A party, seeking to avail himself of a defense, like usury, involving a fortesture, is bound to allege and prove the facts necessary to establish it, and no presumption will be included in his favor.

Thus, where it was alleged that a foreign contract, reserving interest at the rate of eight per cent, was usurfoner add, that the party was bound to allege and prove that interest at that rate was forbidden by the law of the State under which the contract is to be construed. The presumption that the foreign law agrees which our own is not indulged in such a case.

If seems, that the mere fact that, on a contract for the sale of land, a higher than the legal rate of interest is reserved upon the deferred payments, does not render the trainsaction sourious. A demouraer remaining upon the record is an adminsion of the facts stated in the piesding, to-which it is interposeed, not only for the purpose of the argument, but as evidence upon the trial of the issue to which the pleading demuured to resistes.

Accordingly, where, to a defence of the statute of limitations, the plaintiff replied successive absences of the defendant from this State; the defendant's demourer to the rapply was overruld, with liberty to him to withdraw it upon terms; but he went to trial without complying with those terms: Acid, that the reply stood admitted, and so evidence was required of the facts therein stated.
